

Von Herten Brothers, Endlessly

human feelings after all are waves that linger on my shore no one sees them and they're gone the tide comes and brings them up once more falling headlong - like a newborn from a great height to a new life all i wished for when i died was to do so with a smile in my eyes i saw the wind and so much more the whirlwind came knocking at my door from a sunrise - through the past lives from a rain cloud to a bare ground i was free for a moment i was free, i was free and now i'm here for a moment to be free, to be free endlessly

did you learn your lessons? did you meet their needs?
did you look behind the memories?
did you share your wisdom? did you make it real?
did you meet the eyes of enemies?