Von Ra, Now & Then

Every now and then there stands a man beside me He's standing right beside me but he's not there I look him in the eyes, they're the eyes of a stranger I keep running, man, this ain't fair Every now and then I see All the world has given me Ain't that what life's all about? Got to struggle to be free Set your mind on higher things Get in, win, and then get out Every now and then there stands a man behind me He's standing right behind me but I'm not there He looks me in the eyes, they're the eyes of a stranger I'm not running, man, I'm not scared Now the problem seems to be All the time for you and me Well, ain't that what life's all about? Got to struggle to be free Set your mind on higher things Get in, win, and then get out