

Wakefield, L7 (Medication)

Knowing less is worth more than knowing everything
I wish that I was ignorant Im leaving now, Ill go home
And wait for you to call him instead of me

Ill go home and sleep on it
You wear my clothes to bed
Pretending that you still want me
But I know where i stand

What did he say that i didnt say
How can I change,
tell me how can i change
lets move on this takes too long Why can't you admit that you were wrong?

Next week Ill still be here waiting There's no place for complaining shut up now, just hear me out When you make out with him i feel left out

{i feel left out}

What did he say that i didnt say
How can I change,
tell me how can i change
lets move on this takes too long
Why can't you admit that you were wrong?

What did he say that i didnt say
How can I change,
tell me how can i change
lets move on this takes too long
Why can't you admit that you were wrong?

Is it wrong to blame it on
All the Medication I was on
Is it wrong to blame it on
All the Medication I was on
Is it wrong to blame it on
All the Medication I was on
Is it wrong to blame it on
All the Medication I was on
Is it wrong to blame it on
All the Medication I was on

Knowing less is worth more than knowing anything

What did he say that i didnt say
How can I change,
tell me how can i change
lets move on this takes too long
Why can't you admit that you were wrong?

What did he say that i didnt say
