

Wakefield, Whats Up Now

I had a big crush on you, but you crushed it in two
I knew that it was over, before you said we were through
But time is on my side because you just went to bed
And maybe if I write a song and leave it in your head

You'll wake up realizing that you really are mean
The mask that you wear for all your friend blocks out the reality
I hope that you know, but if you dont care I'll say it anyway

Why dont you just go, and buy yourself some bigger clothes
That your head will fit in, you just don't understand
And you will never know, cause I never let it show
Im throwing in the towel, so here I am whats up now?

So here I'll plant a flower of beauty for you
It's all I have left of you, to grease up your mentality
You act like theres a halo floating over your head
You lack the common decency to regret what you said

I hope that you know
But if you don't care, I'll say it anyway
Why dont you just go, and buy yourself some bigger clothes
That your head will fit in, you just don't understand
And you will never know, cause I never let it show
Im throwing in the towel, so here I am whats up now?

(Jamming)

(Hey)
(Ho)
(Hey)

Why dont you just go, and buy yourself some bigger clothes
That your head will fit in, you just don't understand
And you will never know, cause I never let it show
Im throwing in the towel, so here I am whats up now? (fade)
