

Walter Egan, Time And The Rain

By Walter Egan

Rain falling down are you crying now?
Rain whispers songs to your frowns
When lonely teardrops fill up your eyes
Rain wash away all the time that you've cried

You had your time in the sunshine
Now you need smiles all the while
Rain crying teardrops for flowers' smiles
Rain wash away all the time that you've cried

Go trade your cloudy shade
Into a sky of blue
There are rainbows shining through all your raindrops
You know your lonely now is only for awhile
There'll be sunlight breaking through on your smile

Rain falling down are you crying now
Rain whispers songs to your frown
When lonely teardrops fill up your eyes
Rain wash away all the time that you've cried.