

Wanda Jackson, More You See Me Less

For some time I've watched your coldness grow
It's true that nothing lasts forever I guess
But your resentment is so strong that it shows
You seem to like me better the more you see me less
You seem to like me better the less you see of me
The more I try the more you once set free
To love you I done my very best but you like me better the more you see me less (steel)
I can't believe it you're really gonna let me fall
Cause the times that I gave you were my best
My consolation is ever having you at all
But now you like me better the more you see me less
You seem to like me better...
You seem to like me better the more you see me less
