

Warhead, The Healing

(music: eilen)

(lyrics: eilen)

(arranged by breitenbach) the black sunshine high above smell dead children, forget to love soul burns brightly, never see never hear a word from me one door is open, one door is locked i am the mountain, the highest rock you'll never reach the end until your hands work for my own will hurgh

a loaded pistol in your hand will never be my command the dream you reach in your mind well, i'm polite, you'll never find without my hand, without my feet a man is nothing more than meat hell is for those who criticize the truth, it lies behind my eyes

i don't possess you, i don't care that's not my kind of warfare trust me, you're small together we're tall when you give me your life, child it is the last time you will smile for me the biggest, endless thrill you never thought that i'd kill

and from the point that you are mine you start to learn a different side the one who reaches out for me is trapped by sick misanthropy cause i deliver you from good i treat you like nobody would say hello to the masters knife and say good-bye to the beat of life

hurgh

hUUUOAAAARSIRE!!!
