

Warner Mack, I'll Still Be Missing You

I'll still be missing you just as long as the sun shines through
No matter what I do I'll still be missing you

I told myself when I walked out her door
Now don't look back you don't need her anymore
Cause out there somewhere a new world you're gonna find
So walk away and leave the rest of time
I'll still be missing you...

What a fool I was to think that I could leave away of life already built in me
Now all those times that used to seem so bad
Well I know now were the best I've ever had Cause I'll still be missing you...
No no matter what I do I'll still be missing you
