

Warner Mack, Time Keeps Standing Still

When you left me I knew my world was gone
But I decided it was best to just leave you alone
So I told myself that I'd forget a part of you each day
And that time would finally take the hurt away
But time keeps standing still and I'm left with a thrill
Of a love that still burns with the sight of you
Yes time keeps standing still and I can't find the will
To let the time take away my thoughts of you
(guitar)
I watch every clock to see that time is flyin' by
And count every day the sun starts sinking in the sky
I even tell myself I look older every day yes I'll do anything to make time pass away
Yes time keeps standing still...
