

Warren Zanes, Scrapbook

let's put it all in there from your favorite words to the tired stare that only you can do let's put it all in there for you let's put the things you stole when you thought no one saw and something strange took hold your little fingers grew let's put the pictures that you drew let's put the day we met the way the trees were bent because the wind that blew let's put it all in there let's put the faces that you knew let's put dark and let's put light the car we bought you bent it apartment rooms with fatal flaws why even think that we should pause let's really lay it bare let's put it all in there let's put the kitchen sink the times you ran away or when the neighbors came because of all the noise let's put their faces at the door let's put the lids we'd drop on the things we'd say though it was late to stop let's put it all in there let's put their faces at the door let's put dark and let's put light the car we bought you bent it apartment rooms with fatal flaws hey, you know if everything is through let's really let 'em stare let's put it all in there