

Watashi Wa, The Air I Breathe

Well I know that this is real, because it passes what I feel
But I'm feeling what I know and its unexplainable
And if you could feel that air, run through fields without a care
And the grass would blow on you well then you would know it too

But grass dies and night falls and skies cloud to dark
It seems that its different, but you're near so real so complete

And the air I breathe, so full, so deep
Forever so complete, forever so complete
The air I breathe, so full, so deep
Forever so complete, forever so complete

I could take you there, where you could feel that air
And the worlds could spin around, but it's always, always found
When you feel that dear run through fields without a care
And the grass would blow on you and then you would know it too

But grass dies and night falls and skies cloud to dark
It seems that its different, but you're near so real so complete

And the air I breathe, so full, so deep
Forever so complete, forever so complete
The air I breathe, so full, so deep
Forever so complete, forever so complete
