We Are Scientists, Callbacks

I guess that I should probably leave right now 'cause I'm already kinda sweaty and freakin' out I gotta time-bomb headache that's sticking down I guess that everything is better when I'm not around It's all outta context There's nothing I'm into Call it a complex It's really quite simple I'm tired of these hang ups I wish someone would call me back How 'bout it? Well my tongue is hot and I'm singing songs I got a million only words for what you are I gotta plastic bag and a broken heart I guess everything is better wherever you are It's all outta context There's nothing I'm into Call it a complex It's really quite simple I'm tired of these hang ups I wish someone would call me back How 'bout it? It's all about context There's nothing I'm into Call it a complex It's really quite simple I'm tired of these hang ups I wish someone would call me back I said that I'm so sorry to bring you down I guess that everything's better when I'm not around I said that I'm so sorry to bring you down I guess that everything's better when I'm not around I said that I'm so sorry to bring you down I guess that everything's better when I'm not around
