Wedding Present, Sticky

I don't want to hear it, there's nothing left to talk about Get along, get along, get out Get along, get along, get out of here

Well I give and you take, I think I made one big mistake Now get along, get along, get out of here

Because I've put up with you for too long I thought I could stick with you but I was wrong

Well I might be thick skinned, but I find your presence sickening Now get along, get along, get out Get along, get along, get out of here Get along, get along, get out Get along, get along, get out of here

Because I've put up with you for too long I thought I could stick with you but I was wrong

Except I've put up with you for too long I thought I could stick with you but I was wrong
