

Wester, A Fool's Errand

you tried to take the crown, another failed attempt at what point are you able to admit defeats? i would have killed to save you, or tried to stop the war anything to make you understand your crimes. so come on now, and try to tell me things will change lie to me, say you want to rewrite history i'm sorry i could never take the fall, you always leaned on me it's you, it's you, it's you look at your broken frame now you'll never breathe again with caved in lungs you're just like me, we're all the same we've forgotten how to breathe. you've gotta have it, you never earned it this is how it all came down. it's like a heart, just cuz you've got one doesn't mean you use it it'll never beat, you'll never feel it until you start to believe.
