

Wester, The Fury Of Goodbyes

As I walk down this darkened path
I can't ignore the fire that burns inside my eyes
This chill fills the air long into the moonlit night
Leaves fall slowly as I bid the fall farewell

As time takes everything, alone I beg for safety
This chill fills the air long into the moonlit night
Leaves fall slowly as I bid the fall farewell

It's colder than your heart on this november's eve
My fear wraps it's arms around me
All that once was, now is not, I won't look back
I won't succumb to this night, I won't give up on life

This fire burns deep inside my heart
The chill in the air brings me no relief
I can't avoid the stare of the dying trees
I can feel a thousand eyes upon me
Instantly I could drop to my knees
And beg the winter to take me away

Forever until the end of time
A part of you will always be with me
But a part of me will always haunt you
Never forget what we had
