

Westworld, Ice Queen

Time to leave the dead behind
Shed the weight suppressing me
A dark beautiful, naked life at the edge of the sea

Towards the sky I have been drawn
But alone, too scared to fly
Underneath her wings I was safe till the tears ran dry

I've got a soul that she could not seem to reach
She'll never know how I feel
Brought down the wall to her face I couldn't speak
I'll never touch her that way again

Cold up inside my body numb in my mind, somebody wake me!
Make me believe in love again now that I'm free from the ice queen

Her shoulder turned to let me fall
The sirens wailed as she slid away
In my head the demons came out to enjoy the day

She's got a soul that I just can't seem to reach
I'll never know how she feels
Up in her castle with the Empire at her feet
Shes rules her world, but not with me

Cold up inside my body numb in my mind, somebody wake me!
Make me believe in love again now that I'm free from the ice queen
