

Wheat, More Than You'll Ever Know

What will you say when he comes home
Will you try to cover your tracks
I can't say that I'd blame you for that
What will you do when he asks you
Will the words fall out of your mouth
I can't say that I'd believe you now
More than you'll ever know
What will you do when you're through
Will you try to take it all back
I can't say that that would change the facts
What will you do when you're alone
Will you try to renew your vows
I can't say that I would need you now
