

Whippersnapper, To The Third Degree

Watch your mouth drop open
Did you have something to say?
I wouldn't waste my time with words that never seem to matter anyway.
Cause I'm still standing and I'm on top of the world
I watch you work your line with a smile and never say a word.
Do you think I'm easy?
I think you want it this way.
So you can be the victim when it becomes your role to play.
I'm just a perfect stranger that you know by name
sleeping with one eye open let you play your game.
Will it make a difference?
I never wanted this way.
I walked an awkward line for awhile and now there's hell to pay.
I think you're playing with fire,
you think you're playing for keeps.
And will it seem surprising
when what you sow is what you reap?
I'm just a perfect stranger that you know by name
sleeping with one eye open let you play your game
you're living your life in anger,
try to take your claim,
but now that my trust is broken watch me walk away