

Whitehouse, Homeward Bound

Whitehouse

Homeward bound

I knew the moment that she walked in
She would blow my mind away
I could leave or I could die I knew it well
So I decided I would stay

She caught my glance within an instance
I never thought it'd be so soon
And when she placed herself at the bar
Well I swear, my brains just left the room

"Step right up, sit right down
Don't let your head
Spin round and round.
Loosen up, don't you frown
Take it easy baby
We're homeward bound";

Now some would say that I am just crazy
But they weren't there, how could they tell
And when she smiled over I knew right there so well
All my senses went to hell

Now some may say that I am a little loco
But I knew just what to do
And I could talk until you're pink in the face
But I know I never would get through

I stumbled over wondering what to say
Trying not to give myself away
But it's so hard just to be natural
When your mind's been blown away

"Step right up" what?
"sit right down
And don't let your head
Spin round and round.
Loosen up, don't you frown
Don't you worry baby
We're homeward bound
Step right up" she said

I knew the moment that she walked in
She would blow my mind away
I could leave or I could die I knew it well
So I decided I would stay

I stumbled over wondering what to say
Trying not to give myself away
But it's so hard just to be natural
When your mind's been blown away

And she said "step right up" yeah
"Sit right down
Don't you worry baby
You're on solid ground
Loosen up yeah, do not frown
Take easy honey
It's gold you've found

"Sit right down
You're spinning round and round
Loosen up yeah don't you frown
