

Wide Mouth Mason, Dry You Up

It came
And it went and it's gone and you're sad
'Cause you lost what you thought you had
And you know that you can't get it back

And now
You pretend you're ok and you're glad
And it's good 'cause it made you mad
You're better if it's bottled up inside

Yeah
Ain't it beautiful to see things clear
When you never need to laugh from fear
That you're wet because there's no one there
To come and dry you up

And where you used to be full there's a hole
And you're scared that it's starting to show
And soon everyone's gonna know

Now you're safe
You're locked up and you're ready to go
Back to the things you stole
From the crooks and the thieves that were stealing from you

Yeah
Ain't it beautiful to see things clear
When you never need to laugh from fear
That you're wet because there's no one there
To come and dry you up

It came
And it went and it's gone and you're sad (so sad so sad)
'Cause you lost what you thought you had (so sad so sad)
And you know that you can't get it back
