

Wildhearts, One Love, One Life, One Girl

The one, the where, the why
The home below the sky
The only thing that men will sing about throughout the world
One love, one life and one girl

The light you gave to me that even I can see
If beauty shines like a precious stone
Then you're the only pearl
One love, one life and one girl

And maybe they'll be times it seems the height is too big to climb for two
And maybe they'll be days where we forget it's just a phase to get through
We always make it through, we always do
We always do

The one, the where, the why
That all is measured by
The toughest fall when beauty calls and see how small we curl
One love, one life and one girl
One love, one life and one girl
