Wildhearts, So Into You

I like your big decisions
But I love the way you change your mind
I like your strength of vision
But I love the way that love is blind

I like that you've got bigger balls Than almost all of the special forces And I need you leaving me Like UFO's need horses

So into you

I like when you've got opinions
But I love that you never take a side
I like that you ain't into millions
But I love that you expect me to provide

I like the way you make me feel And if this ain't real, then I ain't breathing And I love that you've given me Exactly what I was needing

So into you

I like your calm dependence And I like your way with patience I like your understanding But I love what you're demanding

I like your taste in outfits
But I love your taste in misfits
And I know that when the shit fits
The toughest teeth grit, 'cos this is it

So into you
