

Wildhearts, Something Weird (Going On In My Head)

There's a light in my room so that it's always night or day
I know that being responsible will help me find my way
Well, I'd swim an ocean to be around it
But I've been swimming since the age I found it
The sweet affliction, people are different
Feeling my head is my home (head is my home)
Better than being alone

There's something weird, There's something weird
There's something weird, There's something weird going on in my head
There's something weird, There's something weird
There's something weird going on in my head, something weird going on in my' head

Take me away from all the silence and the pain
Far from the growing reek of greed and personal gain
Well, I'd find shelter, I'd be an outlaw
To dry myself off from the bullshit downpour
Don't need a reason, you don't deserve one
Just buy an easier time (Easier time)
'Cos in the back of my mind

There's something weird, There's something weird
There's something weird, There's something weird going on in my head
There's something weird, There's something weird
There's something weird going on in my head

I never knew I could leave here
I never knew it was so easy
Well I never knew it, I never knew I could fly
Hey! Hey! Hey!

Woah, yeah
I'd swim an ocean to be around it
But I've been swimming since the age I found it
The sweet affliction, I think you're different
Feeling my head is my home (Head is my home)
Better than feeling alone

There's something weird, There's something weird
There's something weird, There's something weird going on in my head
There's something weird, There's something weird
There's something weird going on in my head
There's something weird, There's something weird
There's something weird going on in my head
There's something weird, There's something weird
There's something weird going on in my head
Something weird, something weird, something weird, something weird'
