

William Malcolm, Bye Bye

You bring out an anger in me,
When you throw my words away,
And I stop believing,
The silence calls my name.

I want to make you see,
See beyond the mask and the masquerade,
So I scream, So I scream.

Have you ever looked at your reflection staring back at you?
Do you ever feel ashamed?
Well I do.

Try to fool myself,
Say its all a dream,
And just walk away,
Waking up just ain't enough,
To bring you back again.

And I,
I feel my body's breaking down again,
It's breaking down to pieces in my hands.

Bye bye, Bye bye,
Looking back it makes me wonder.
Don't cry, Don't cry,
Can't believe it's really over!

Come, Babe,
Give me a sign.
Give me one chance,
To make things alright.
