Willie Nelson, Will You Remember

Sweet is the song when the song is love love that has stood the test of time And when you've heard all the songs of love will you remember mine Gone are the times that I walked with you and held your hand in mine Now when you hold another's hand will you remember mine I have sat neath the trees while the cool summer breeze Blew away the sands of time And thought of days when you were near remembering when you were mine Gone are the times when I held you close and pressed your lips to mine Now when you kiss another's lips will you remember mine I have sat neath the trees...
