

Winds, Theory Of Relativity

Where lies the wonder in all I see
Surrounded by a phantom dream
I question my fate in this existence

In my view are my deepest thoughts
Bound together by that which isn't real
In this kingdom truth lies hidden

Existing though infinity and space
Where fate is concealed and matter released
The deepest secrets of my world
I open my arms and welcome their demise

Yet they will never cease to be
Expanding everlastingly beyond limitation
Created and recreated with no conclusion