Winter's Bane, Reflections Within

Cohegan is arrested for the murder of his wife Cohegan stands in the courtroom with his fate in the jury's hands We the jury, find the defeandant, Mr. Cohegan Guilty of murder! Guilty!!!

As I write these last words A message to my family I'm all alone - can you please forgive me

As the twilight fades into the distant sky a shooting star steals my breeth away from my one last wish is to feel loved again to have my heart freed - freed from sin

Now I face my deepedt fear Not of death or what's beyond But the memories that left me disgrace

Oh how my eyes deceive me Doesn't anyone see? Is that the blade in the mirror or a reflection within? Is that the blade in the mirror or a reflection within?

Walking trought - the darkness His last rites are read Asking for a mirror Was Cohegan's last request

Oh how my eyes deceive me Doesn't anyone see? Is that the blade in the mirror It's been a reflection within Oh how my eyes deceive me Doesn't anyone see?

Why isn't the blade in the mirror It's been a reflection within Why isn't the blade in the mirror It's been a reflection within