

With Honor, With The Wind

Yesterday is gone
my heart is singing a new day's song with the good days the bad days will come, but I'm ready to move on TO MOVE ON

all my worries and all my fears I've pushed aside in a swift stream of tears

Times have changed, minds have changed hope for help was lost we'll find it real not when we get there but here... now!

In this decision, in the resolve to look around with open eyes and see that circumstance can't take control, our lives in our hands

Looking back on my faint memories there was a heart that burned to be true... and I will get there when I realize that...

Life lies in this moment

Times have changed minds have changed
yesterday is gone
but today is in my hands.