Within Temptation, Restless

She embraced With a smile As she opened the door A cold wind blows It puts a chill Into my heart You have taken away the trust You're the ghost haunting through her heart Past and present are one in her head You're the ghost haunting through her heart Take my hand as I wander through All of my life I gave to you Take my hand as I wander through All of my love I gave to you You have taken away the trust You're the ghost haunting through her heart Past and present are one in her head You're the ghost haunting through her heart Take my hand as I wander through All of my life I gave to you Take my hand as I wander through All of my love I gave to you
