

Without A Cross, The Nightmare

It started as a dream, and then the nightmare took it's toll

I was taught all the answers lie in the light
My dreams are all as black as night
What lies in the light may not lie in the dark
My dreams have been torn apart

So open up the door and see what's behind
All the dreams and answers and all the lies
Stricken like a needle in the vein unreal
Taken from my mind it's all too real

It all was a motive to reemphasize
Taken from my world and reenergize
Bliss I seek was too far a dream
Cause in this world we seldom scream

Take away my sunshine
You live in a world struck with divine
Leave my peace in a shelf up high
Or take my motion and DIE!!!
