

Yellow Second, Mulberry

i'll take the lead
catch me if you can one final look
we're never going back again come on you can't miss follow me and see
you're making this harder than it has to be
it's in your eyes
i can't explain
not in disguise
but not the same
do i even know you anymore?
falling apart
this i can attest
but i know your heart continues beating in your chest when to begin?
tomorrow, so you say
i wonder when tomorrow will become today try to pretend there's nothing wrong are you the friend i knew so long?
further delay
should i do some more?
what could i say
that i haven't said before?
if i could do
one thing, certainly i'd inspire you
the way you once inspired me consider this
the choice you make before you bend so far you break there's little left
of hope, i mean
the rest of it is vanishing