

Yellow Second, Plume

set it up burn it down and in vain the fires will erupt and surround but the pain inspires warming hands by the heat that i'm doomed to repeat again and again
beneath the spreading flame under the poison plume i always feel the same whenever these thoughts i assume you'd better know your way though this you're choking on your every care just find a way to breathe the thinning air it's a game
it's a toss
probably regret it it's the same
at a loss
and i still don't get it i think it's time now to show i've moved on i've let go
can you feel it? can you keep it up?
can you say it?
or have you said enough? i think i've found a way through this i'm swallowing my every care and now i'm breathing in a new days air