

Yeti, Flesh And Bone

There's nothing left for me, except faded memories
A faded photograph of the way life used to be
Summer days we're still climbing up the puzzle tree
Now's the time to take a taxi down to the place we used to go
I think of all the songs we sang, I think of all the jokes we told
Well tell me everything's okay
We're falling apart, fading away

Don't you see there's nothing there, we're all alone
In the cities of steel and stone
Don't you please don't say we're just flesh and bone
Flesh and bone
All we are is flesh and bone
Flesh and bone
All we are is flesh and bone

Who knows what lies behind the door
I've been here before
I hoping that you understand
I'm not a common man

Don't you see there's nothing there, we're all alone
In the cities of steel and stone
Don't you please don't say we're just flesh and bone
Flesh and bone
All we are is flesh and bone
Flesh and bone
All we are is flesh and bone

You live your life today because it could be all lies
You turn around to find that your whole life has past
Everywhere and everyone, everything will pass
Don't say there's nothing there
