

You're Pretty, Breakthrough Or Breakdown

Are you scared to touch do you think that I won't be contagious one minute i'm a freak and next you say i am genius Little meetings nonsense greeting claims that you will make me
Its wearing me out
Bringing me down

Will you push me cause i'm standing on the edge now
of a breakthrough or breakdown
I never wanted anything more so don't you forget
even though i'm a little jaded and complicated
I won't back down

Isn't this the same road the same road that we've been down empty promises and running into brick walls Simple life it calls to me but now i'm screaming out for more
Its wearing me out
Its bringing me down

Will you push me cause i'm standing on the edge now
of a breakthrough or breakdown
I never wanted anything more
so don't you forget
even though i'm a little jaded and complicated
I won't back down

Traveling a million miles just to reach the same place back where we started from can't you feel the deja vu
All my hopes and dreams it only hurts me when i laugh
Its wearing me out
Its bringing me down
