Young Guns, Learn My Lesson

I am a wavering candle light I remain but I'm ever slight Through all my years I sit In my room in the fading light Righting back all my wrongs tonight 'Cause I'm still here

Boarded up all the doors And I swallowed all the keys I'm still haunted by All the things I'll never be

To live Is to learn Oh the heart's a heavy burden So I take (I take) I don't wait (don't wait) Nothing ever is for certain And I hold my hands up high On my knees tonight I'll take Won't wait I will live and learn my lesson here tonight

I Never knew it could be so cold But I burnt all the things I used to hold so dear Still I fight (I fight) With my pen in my hand held tight (held high) Writing protest songs tonight 'Cause I'm still here

Boarded up all the doors And I swallowed all the keys I'm still haunted by All the things I'll never be

To live Is to learn Oh the heart's a heavy burden So I take (I take) I don't wait (don't wait) Nothing ever is for certain And I hold my hands up high On my knees tonight I'll take Won't wait I will live and learn my lesson here tonight Woah, woah

I'll get off my knees and fight Kick down the doors let in the light tonight Tonight

To live Is to learn Oh the heart's a heavy burden So I take (I take) I don't wait (don't wait) Nothing ever is for certain And I hold my hands up high On my knees tonight I'll take Won't wait I will live and learn my lesson here tonight Woah, woah

I will live and learn my lesson
