

Youth Brigade, Questions

Why do we never get an answer when we're knocking at your door
With a thousand million questions about hate and death and war?

Why do we never get an answer when we're knocking at your door
With a thousand million questions about hate and death and war?
Cos when you stop and think about it, there is nothing that we need
In a world of persecution, when it's burning up with greed

Why do we never get an answer when we're knocking at your door
With a thousand million questions about hate and death and war?
Cos when you stop and think about it, there is nothing that we need
In a world of persecution, when it's burning up with greed