

Youth Group, Let It Go

Let it go, before I force it from your grip
Your ears are beginning to ring.
I will hold you as you start to slip
This will feel like dying.

You stagger like a last round fighter It's cause you're strong to make you right you fall, you've got farther to go

Like Lewis unit cracks to listen.
he stood for something that got pissed on You got no more fields to hoe.

Let it go Just wipe you mind and forget what you know lose it like money you forgot that you know and let it go.

A dawn meant for us alone
Peering through the shadow of trees While they stand speechless on their phones bug-eyed on their balconies.

Deep within his father's nest.
Lachlan holds Jaimie to his breast
He begins to let it all go
"What have I done to deserve this?"
He asks between a drunken kiss.
"Is this really happening? Oh no"

Let it go
All of your cracks are beginning to show Take your fires drown them deep in the snow
and let it go

Na-na na na . . .

Yeah, let it go burn your pages destroy what you own and when the cracks are beginning to grow Just let it go
