

Zhorn, Sitha's Dance

Cold wind blows, oh, how far is Naglimund?
This forest sleeps as we march through the world of snow
This heart is old and only time will tell
Don't pretend this can be the last farewell

Hold on to your quest for your company
Be strong for your love or the ghost of me
Eastern Ard is in fear, something's going on Cry out for release and it will be done someday...

High in his tower, there's something so dark
It's Pryrates madness
A power that might break your heart
And if I die, would I go?
Would I lie? would I say "no"?

A beast on my shoulder, a voice in my mind
The gods left their playground
And he is the demon behind and if I die, would I go?
Would I lie, would I say "no"?

A head is a pathway that leads us to see
The way of the brave
Hear! for the wise Troll is able to teach
The grace of the Sitha inside
"I can see them dance"

Sleep, lay down your fears
And wait for the snow to hide your tears
When hope is lost remind the brave
And if you try, I will keep you save

As long as you breathe
There's freedom and love
You're heading for Naglimund
Lay down your head

And high on her mountain, there's something so dark
The ice-queen is sleeping
A power that might break your heart
And if I die, would I go?
Would I lie, would I say "no"?

The dance of the Sitha, it's all been foretold
The well-known is changing
The wisdom is precious as gold
And if I die, would I go?
Would I lie, would I say "no"?