

Zox, Ode To The Mountain Pirates

Raise your cups mountain pirates
Let's stop and have a drink
And observe a moment's silence
We all need some time to think
We've had a long hard day
Unassuming, unafraid
We bared our skin and bone
And we climbed atop this stone
So let us lie, Mountain Pirates
And look up at the stars
Because I know that we are tired
But we've found out who we are
And upon this bed of dirt
We'll pacify the hurt
Upon this precipice
We know just what living is
