

Zuba, Song 34

1) Right about the time I wrote this song I had a dream I was living this life I live not drifting away like a leaf on a fall day thats how I feel sometimes when im awake hallucination can tell a truth like a pulled tooth when your asleep your body turns your mind loose let it go let it go, im lettin go tryin to enjoy that show cause if I break awake and the world still spins I break from insecurity got to find some purity oh my god in my mind theres a sad collaboration of classic hesitation im a fool drawn to a fool led by the fool said im a fool drawn to a fool led by the fool

2) now secrets temptation and the abstract living in a metephor I find myself freaking out "its all good" I could say but when the shit hits the fan ill be on my way cause truth morality that aint real music emotion and death thats the real deal the question is which side your on cause one can be weak and one can be strong when your up against the wall whos the one that youll call will you reach down grab hold of some of your pride or reach beneath the floor boards and die
