

Zwan, Declaration Of Faith

this man you love, this boy you hate the hills are his in all embrace enchanted and not soon lost this man you call with lover's draw so coarse in kind it can't be sought for leaving is what i do i declare myself

declare myself of faith
i declare myself

ever wonder why they kill the weak ones baby?
cause no one really cares someone always thought a good reason, baby describe a river affirm my power to spend my dollars, to get us home and yeah, i've got no money, got no secrets maybe we were born to kiss another maybe we were born to run forever or maybe we were born to come together, or whatever kiss me alone

this boy you chance, this man you'll find will dry the tears behind your eyes so stop laughing and play the muse this heartache rots that which spills from my heart into your will so give in to the rivers wind

so they can't to testify for every single ghost on that freeway, baby has got to give a mild holler to spend my dollars we've got to get away i've got no money, got no secrets maybe we were born to love each other

kiss me alone
kiss me alone

maybe we were born to love
